What You Lose When You Don't Decide

Decisions are risky, and you could suffer loss, but without risk, there can also be no reward. Retirees don't regret the bad decisions they made, they regret the decisions they left unmade. Don't let that be you. Because when you don't make a decision, you become the slave of the person that does.

The 5 W's of Decision Making

To be decisive, you need a goal. To have a goal you must have a desire. To have a desire you must be honest with yourself. To be honest, you must have courage. To have courage you must have knowledge. To have knowledge, you must have truth. So, therefore, start with truth.
